

Medicated Oils

Medicated Oils are the processed emulsion of medicinal lipids dissolved in oil medium. They are prepared by the incorporation of various medicinal ingredients in oils as per the respective yogams (Recipes). Oils are mixed with kwatha, juice of medicinal plants, kalkas as required, boiled and processed at a medium temperature.

The processing method varies depending on the mode of administration. Special care is paid to the oil, which is taken for internal use. Generally the medicated oils are prepared in gingelly oil unless it is mentioned accordingly as Coconut oil or Castor oil whereas kuzhambu is prepared with ghee in addition to Gingelly oil and castor oil in a definite ratio.

Strict quality control norms are followed to ensure the desired result for the product. The basic raw materials like gingelly oil, coconut oil and castor oil are analysed to check its purity before using. The final product has the colour and odour of the medicinal ingredients used in the preparation.
